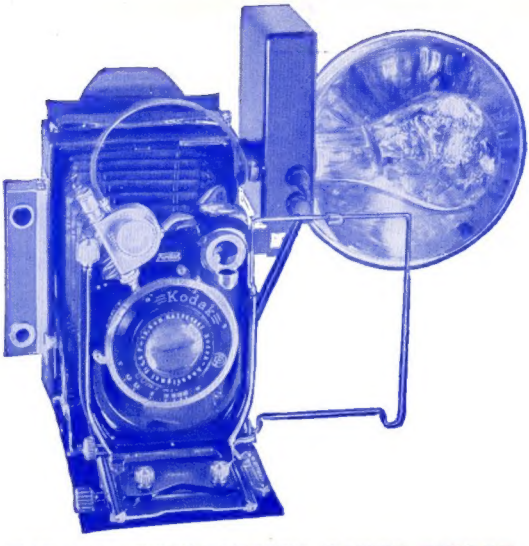
AUTOMATIC FOCUSING!

The Kalart Synchronized Range Finder is coupled directly to the track of the camera so that turning the focusing knob not only moves the lens forward and back but also operates the mechanism of the Range Finder, thus automatically synchronizing it with the lens.

No other motions are required than those used in normally operating the camera. Simply open the camera and bring the lens standard forward to the infinity stop. Then look at the object to be photographed through the eye-piece of the Range Finder and turn the focusing knob of the camera. When the two separate images of the subject which are visible in a bright luminous circle are superimposed, perfect focus is obtained.

This method of focusing a camera yields a much sharper negative than can be obtained by the use of a ground glass or bed scale. The Kalart Synchronized Range Finder supplies all the focusing conveniences of a candid camera, plus the added feature of man-size negatives.



KALART SYNCHRONIZED RANGE FINDER (installed price $20.50) and MICROMATIC SPEED FLASH (list $13.50) mounted on 9 x 12 cm. Kodak Recomar.

The Kalart Synchronized Range Finder makes your 9 x 12 cm. a press-type camera that will bring home the picture every time. This is especially true when used with the Kalart Speed Flash for which a special tripod bushing is supplied and attached to the left side of the camera. This bushing serves also as a tripod socket as well as a holder for the cable release by means of an ingenious spring clip arrangement which is part of the tripod bushing.

LIST PRICE $18.00
INSTALLED $20.50

The shutter or synchronizer can then be released by pressure at this point with the left hand while the camera is focused with the right hand.
